Is your engineer well rounded?

So many of our engineers have the technical know-how and expertise to run our buildings efficiently, but we want to make them even better. Our goal is to enhance the value of your engineer through training and certification.

In order for us to make the most of this program, sponsorship and participation by your building will be required. We don't need your money, as the cost of the program will be covered by your monthly training fund contributions, but we do need your support, and in return, we pledge to give you a well-rounded engineer that will add value to your property management team.
